VALUABLE
Timber Lands,
And Mill Property
FOR SALE.

THE subscriber, desirous of disposing of all his interest in Timber Lands and mills, will sell on favorable terms the following:

One-Half Township No. 5, Range 4, Oxford County.

The whole township contains twenty-six thousand (26,000) acres; is heavily timbered with spruce, estimated at sixty to eighty millions, all of which stands within near and easy hauling distance of the Magalloway river or its branches, which runs through the town, or Parmachena Lake, which is embraced within its limits.

Also 16,000 Acres of Land in the Town of Byron, Oxford Co., well covered with large Spruce timber. Swift river and its branches run through these lands and empty into the Androscoggin below Rumford Falls.

Also 1100 Acres Timber and Wood Land in Town of Gorham, N. H.

two miles above the Alpine House, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railroad, and the banks of the Androscoggin river. There is a large quantity of wood on these lots which, from its proximity to the Railroad, is steadily increasing in value.

Also 2500 Acres Lands in the Towns of Albany and Stoneham.

near the village of North Waterford, Oxford County. This land is covered with thrifty sapling Pine timber, standing near Crooked river, which runs through the tract. Logs put into Crooked river can be run to Saccarappa, or by hauling four to five miles they can be put into the Saco. There is a good mill privilege, with a single saw mill on the tract; distance to the canal at Harrison ten miles; to the railroad at South Paris twelve miles. The land is valuable for settling purposes after being cleared of timber.

Also 435 Shares of Stock in the Lewiston Steam Mill Company, the whole capital stock being represented by 827 shares. The property of the company consists of a Steam Saw Mill, capable of manufacturing five million feet of long lumber, with a proportionate amount of clapboards, shingles and laths. About fifteen acres land in the city of Lewiston, well located for building purposes, and thirty thousand acres of timber land, well located on the Androscoggin river and its branches, from which but a small quantity of the timber has been cut.

GROANING UNDER DEMOCRACY.

We could only desire that the people might know the true state of affairs in New York City under the unrestricted sway of the Tammany Democracy. The picture has no bright side, from top to bottom it is a foul stain upon our national landscape. To be viewed in its true colors would insure a speedy condemnation of its system of dispensing the law and its managers

With one brief and partial exception we believe the Democratic party have always ridden the people of New York through its corporation and with the aid of its dregs drawn from the social sewers of the world, and the groans of the honest and the hard working people have never been regarded Respectable people have been discouraged in attempting to amend the political and social condition of New York, the one has been made tributary to the other, and the sores of society have been aggravated and kept running for the very purpose of driving out respectability and perpetuating the reign of those who build their power upon the popular corruption Outrageous deceptions only have been able to cover the growing and festering evils that beset the great hot-bed of Democracy, and so effectual has this been that the State, with the aid of repeaters, was decoyed into lending its confidence to the men who had so shamefully abused the confidence already too lavishly given them Tammany placed one foot at Albany, and the result has been that where corruption and injustice before formed the rule, a reign of terror has added force to the awful history of the past. No amount of excuses can now palliate the wrongs which Democracy has inflicted The grog-shop, the rat-pit, the policy-shop the panel-house, are simply the foundations for like corruptions in broadcloth and in palaces The murderer goes unhung as comfortably as he may be elected to a ward office the thief receives honor as his theft is extensive. the bully is powerful in the Courts as the rabble applaud his deeds of violence the laws are ineffectual to protect life and property and peaceable citizens are hourly in terror lest criminal violence should burst out in some new quarter Even as we write, a telegram comes to us that on Tuesday night two fresh murders were committed, and the assassins openly boast that they have no fear of the consequences The newspapers not wedded to the rule of the dreadful power of Tammany, are daily deploring the condition of affairs, and the record of crime seems fearfully on the increase Read this paragraph from the New York Times of Tuesday

The crime committed in Fifth-avenue on Saturday night is still further calculated to convince the public, if they had any doubts on the subject before, that there is no kind of security for life or property now remaining in the city We do not blame the police. They cannot be in a dozen places at once—and the force is much too small for so large a city as this But the responsibility for the lawlessness which now prevails rests with those Coroners, Magistrates and Judges, who have done all in their power to justify Reynold's boast—that hanging for murder is "played out" A citizen of the highest respectability, honored in his profession, and well known for his chivalrous devotion to the public interests, is struck down close to his own doorsteps by unknown hands. Mr Dorman B Eaton has no enemies save those whose malice is excited by his exposure of their offences. He was not robbed—the assailant came up softly from behind and struck him a blow which was meant to kill him on the spot Cut-purses, burglars and hired assassins have this greatest city in America at their disposal Night after night fresh victims fall in the reckless butchery which the practical suspension of our laws has occasioned If highwaymen do not set upon the decent citizen he is liable to have his life taken by a scoundrel in the pay of his enemies How long is this murderous work to go on?"

And Brooklyn groans also under the same tyranny of crime; but it groans in vain, for Tammany overshadows it like a nightmare which it is unable to throw off The recent murders there have aroused a popular indignation that is almost irrepressible Assassins boast that the laws will not punish them, and the people are almost tempted to anticipate the course of justice. The military are now guarding the jails, and the tumult is everywhere finding vent in clamors for the summary enforcement of the laws

Such is the condition of things following the extension of power to the Democratic party. Our Democratic newspapers have pointed boastfully to Gov. Hoffman as the hero of reform, but he has exhausted his power in promises, were he relieved from the unholy association of Tammany, he would still be powerless to act. They have pointed us to the Legislature of New York as a model of statesmanship; but already the Legislature has clinched the chain that is to bind still more tightly the outraged people of New York and Brooklyn They have told the people that a Democratic State Government would relieve them of manifold evils; but all the time they have been scheming to deliver them over, bound hand and foot, to the miserable rabble that governs them by the force of its terrible, its dreadful deeds of blood and robbery

Now the people are waking from their dream, and asking, "When will this murderous work cease?" The answer comes too emphatically: Not till the Democratic party ceases to draw sustenance from crime, or the people thrust it from power.

We are informed that the vote to table the recommendation to reduce the tariff on pig iron in the State Senate from $8 to $3 per ton, was not with the intention of killing it. Senator Cushing, upon whose motion it was tabled, is in favor of a low tariff for revenue only and desired to investigate before action to see if it is not expedient to reduce the tariff even lower The Legislative recommendation to abolish the tariff on coal applies to all kinds of coal. That is right.

Legislation was yesterday reported incipient on the proposition to abolish County supervisorships, which is a proper result.—They are an institution which one year's experience has shown should be dispensed with.

The Legislature has appointed a special Committee to consider the expediency of a plan to encourage immigration, to occupy our wild lands. We believe the experience of the past few years, and the opportunities

The Newark Police Commission bill passed the New Jersey Senate Wednesday The Democratic members sustained it claiming that the action of the Republicans in interfering with State matters by the 15th amendment, justified their retaliation in kind by establishing a commission over Newark So Democratic "principle" is retaliation

UNIFORMITY OF SCHOOL BOOKS

AUGUSTA, Feb 16th, 1870

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

The final hearing upon the question of School book uniformity for the State came on Tuesday evening

A P Stone, of Portland, was the first speaker. Said he would like to correct some statements heretofore made. It is not a fact that because he is a teacher in a High School he knows nothing about and is not interested in the country schools, for he has been a member of Committees and a teacher in the common schools for years Denies that he is here as counsel for any party or that he is in the interest of any book publisher

The attitude in which this question stands is an unnatural one The teachers of the State are not in favor of it The same question was before the Legislature last year and the Committee reported legislation inexpedient Don't think the press of the State is in favor of uniformity, if it is, it will amount to nothing unless they reflect the wishes of the people

State uniformity will deprive us of the advantages of improvements in text books. There is progress in all directions, especially in the sciences, progress of which teachers must avail themselves Any teacher will change their mind in regard to books in time Competition will give us good books at low prices

Town uniformity is the cheapest and most economical method Let each town select and decide upon its own text-books. In Portland all pupils who are too poor to purchase, are furnished with books at the expense of the city There can be no go d schools without good classification, but it is so often the fault of the teacher as the multiplicity of school books Town uniformity is the remedy as it can be enforced A book that will answer for one town or school would not be suitable for another Country schools and city schools need different books

One of the greatest wants in the State is better teachers and this can be obtained by sweeping off the district system We also need better supervision There is too much of the Academical element in our Normal schools Legislation upon educational matters should be of a general and not a special charakter The idea that we can legislate anything into existence is folly, for legislation too often proves to be nugatory The people of Maine are generally asking for a change in books, but they want town and not State uniformity

Mr Stone took up much time in referring to matters of a personal character which were not of enough general interest to be worth reporting.

Mr Pullen, of Portland presented the draft of a bill for the better enforcement of uniformity—in favor of town not of State uniformity

Mr Johnson, Superintendent of Schools did not propose to follow Mr Stone in his personalities The question stands thus We are all agreed that the multiplicity of text books is an evil and that uniformity is desirable, but we differ as to the kind of uniformity, some favoring State, others town Other gentleman say town uniformity is best we say it is a failure It has proved a failure in Massachusetts, and that State is now insane in her Legislature for State uniformity and for county supervision

Our State is not now asking for uniformity the first time. The question has been fought before and with the same outrageous force—the book publishers on the one side and the people and friends of education on the other In 1861 and'62, Superintendent Webster recommended State uniformity. Town uniformity has failed and State uniformity is demanded on all sides.

The Teachers, the School Committees the County Supervisors, the Press, and the people demand State uniformity, and in view of this fact should not this bill be presented? The principal objection comes from Portland If the bill is reported by the Committee and the Legislature makes it a law, all right if it is defeated we must try again. Many of the leading book publishers have sent money into the State to oppose and defeat the measure, therefore there is a book power back of all this opposition

Mr. Rounds, of Calais says the citizens of his city are opposed to State uniformity and thinks the County of Washington would vote four to one against it In reference to the schools of New Brunswick where there is a uniformity established by law which does not operate successfully: The teachers are opposed to the use of the books selected, but are obliged to use them or lose the assistance from the government

Rev Mr. Quimby of Augusta said he had seen the evils of multiplicity of school books for twenty years Has seen the practical workings of the thing as he has had occasion to move about frequently Is entirely in favor of the recommendation of the State Superintendent. We should legislate with some regard for the needs of the poor We have 226,000 scholars in Maine, and if they purchase four books a year it will make a million volumes, which shows the great cost to the people. Uniformity would save to the people of the State from $40,000 to $50,000 a year The profits of book publishing are very large and publishers can afford to pay out large sums to get their books introduced—Would have a State publishing house and make our own books.

Mr Parlin of Anson, presented a remonstrance from that town. Has taught school for many years and yet has used but two or three series of books. Has found no difficulty in enforcing town uniformity in Anson.

Hon. Seth Scammon of Roxbury, being called upon, said the question of uniformity was existed for himself twenty years ago, prior he had taught school a score of years.—Then had to use whatever books came up Now, with the state of the market, [illegible] uniformity. It is a matter we are feeling in our pockets every day. We should present the matter more for the interests of our poor towns than for the cities The evil exists and is wide spread, and four fifths of the common people of the State will say give us a uniform series of school books and save us from the severe tax of purchasing so many wrong and unnecessary ones

Further remarks were made by Mr Dresser of Portland who is one of a book publishing firm, and Mr Webb, the Supervisor of Cumberland County both opposed to State and in favor of town uniformity, which closed the hearing

The committee then took a vote upon the question, which resulted in favor of reporting a bill for State uniformity by a vote of 7 to 1 The bill presented by Mr Johnson was referred to a sub-committee for revision and further reports

From the Editor of the Whig and Courier

You must not suppose that I imagine myself to have exhausted Yorkshire in my former communications I am not writing exhaustive letters There are only sketches of whatever I chance to see in my various rambles rides and journeys taken without literary plan or method over the different sections of the kingdom

In Yorkshire, I have mentioned only Sheffield and its beautiful suburbs But there is Leeds a full larger place and York nearly as great in size and Hull the seaport which commands the trade of England with Scandinavia and Germany and several other towns of note in the history of this interesting county Sheffield, however, has interested me more than any and yet I have said but little of the manufactures in which it is engaged in the section

Two topics in particular I have reserved for the beginning of this letter The first, that Sheffield is connected in point of interest with Mary Queen of Scots Her remains were by Elizabeth's order first buried in Fotheringay Castle, but from there she was removed to Peterborough Cathedral, that it might be where she could hold no rights without fear of rescue I have walked over all the localities connected with her brief but eventful life in England till we come to Fotheringay Castle, where the scaffold was erected on which she laid her head down to the executioner's block Peterborough Cathedral is one of the finest in England and contains the tombs of Mary and Catherine of Aragon, the first wife of Henry VIII, and the mother of Queen Mary Tudor Mary's remains were removed to Westminster Abbey by her son James I, and there they rest in the same vault with Elizabeth, her enemy, in death as in life

Next to the story of Queen Mary that of Robin Hood stands first in point of interest connected with this part of Yorkshire Not that the renowned highwayman was born here, for he first saw the light of the Holy Land Nottinghamshire the scene of his many adventures, and Barnsdale Forest, where he could hold his own without fear of rescue I have walked over all the localities connected with his life and have been greatly interested in the country, which has changed but little since the days of Robin Hood Little John, Will Scarlet, Friar Tuck, Maid Marian and the rest of the merry men of the greenwood, whose exploits have been sung in ballad and story for centuries, and whose memory is cherished by the Yorkshire population

At Barnsdale I visited a small hill called Robin Hood Well

Still in the valley which he was so well acquainted with, a cold limpid spring of water with a cup of stone by it. He is said to have drunk from it and from no other, but to have refreshed himself with the cooling draught when weary with a long walk From Barnsdale we went to Hathersage, where the remains of Little John are said to lie buried in the churchyard

Within a few miles of Barnsdale is Wentbridge, where Robin Hood and Little John had their celebrated fight on a narrow bridge, which ended in the defeat of the latter, who, throwing away his staff, exclaimed, "By the mass, master, I will be even with you for this one day hereafter" Robin Hood replied, "Nay, John, we will not fight any more to-day, for if we do, I shall be slain or thou wilt be hanged" Little John, however, was not to be put off, and the two fought on the bridge, till Robin Hood was thrown into the water, when he swam to the bank, and the fight was renewed with the same result, Robin Hood being thrown into the water a second time

FORTY FIRST CONGRESS - SECOND SESSION

WASHINGTON, Feb 17.

SENATE

The debate on the Mississippi bill was resumed Mr Fowler discussing the doctrine of state rights, sustaining Mr Carpenter's Calhoun theory, and Mr Sawyer urging the immediate, and unconditional admission of the State

Mr Thayer said that the proposed conditions being identical with those which had been imposed upon the reconstructed States, would have been more consistent for certain Senators who now denounced them degrading and insulting, to have deceived their States rather than subject them to degradation and insult. Such would have been his course under like circumstances

The discussion was continued by Mr. Cameron, and closed by Mr Trumbull

Mr Willey's amendment to repeal the conditions in the Virginia bill was defeated — Yeas 23—nays 36

An amendment to strike out all the conditions and simply declare the State admitted was defeated,—27 to 32

The bill was then passed by a strict party vote —50 to 11

HOUSE.

Immediately after the reading of the journal the bill to prevent and punish polygamy in Utah was taken up.

Mr Cullom of Illinois, Chairman of the Com on Territories, advocated the bill He said that the condition of things in Utah determined beyond question that it was the duty of Congress to do something in relation to matters there and without delay.

The church, through Brigham Young, controlled the Legislature of the Territory The Legislature appointed the Probate Judges and therefore it became necessary to substitute a United States Judiciary for the Territorial one There was not a member of the Legislature who was not a prominent member of the Mormon church No other could be elected. The leading Mormons who were preaching polygamy in the face of federal authority should be rendered ineligible to vote or hold office They were criminals running at large and were no more qualified to hold office than those who were lately in rebellion The Gentiles who went into that territory to settle were so persecuted that they could not remain, and they were appealing to the Government for protection in their rights of personal property, this bill proposed to place the condition of things there on such a footing as to offer inducements to immigration He read a letter received this morning from a gentleman of character and position in Utah, stating that unless this bill or some such bill be passed every man there who is not a Mormon will have to leave the territory, and that very soon, or place himself where he will inevitably be murdered by the Mormons, who were now trying to organize a force against the passage of the bill.

Mr Cullom occupied the morning hour and the bill went over

Mr Lynch of Maine, from the Select Com on American navigation interests, reported two bills for the relief of commerce, which were ordered to be printed, and made the special order for the third Tuesday in March

Mr. Washburn of Wis, offered an amendment to reduce the item for the private sec'y, and ass't private sec'y, etc, to the President to 3000, and to make it read for compensation to the two executive clerks at 2,300 each and for steward and messenger of the President 7440 The amendment was rejected after a debate of an hour

Mr Kelley of New York, moved an amendment to one of the items for the State department, characterizing the ass't Sec'y of State as having been at heart though not in actions, a malignant rebel, during the war. The official's wife and family were most outspoken secessionists, and his house a rendezvous for rebels

Mr Jenckes of R. I denied the assertion in the most positive manner. Had known the gentleman all through the war, and knew there was no more loyal man in Washington Some slanderers had evidently been poisoning the ear of the gentleman from New York.

Mr Kelley retracted and withdrew his opposition in connection with the appropriations for constructing the branch of the Treasury

The extravagance of the supervising architect Mullett was denounced by Mr Farnsworth of Ill. The question of the New York and Boston Postoffices coming incidentally to the discussion the architect was defended by Mr Butler of Mass,

Having disposed of two pages of the bill the committee rose

THE TARIFF BILL A STILLBORN INFANT Careful inquiry leads to the conclusion that the tariff bill may already be regarded as a dead measure. It will be taken up in the House some time or other in the week, and two weeks will probably be occupied in making set speeches for and against it on the general tariff question, and a motion will then be made to lay it on the table It does not suit anybody, the high tariff men being as much displeased with it as any Some of the strongest men on that side are trying to make any arrangement for saving a few of its provisions, but they do not find the prospect encouraging The revenue tariff men are talking of a short bill changing and reducing rates on some articles but the present indications are that nothing whatever will be done with the tariff at this session

Counsel for the State—HON WM P FRYE Attorney General, and CHAS F STETSON, County Attorney

Counsel for the Defense — COL ABNER KNOWLES and COL JOHN F GODFREY

Thursday Feb 17 1870

FOURTH DAY

At the coming in of the Court at 9 o'clock Mr Knowles commenced the closing argument for the prisoner

Although laboring under some indisposition from the effects of a cold, feeling the importance of the case and his duty as Counsel, he entered upon his argument with his usual earnestness and vigor

After speaking of the duty of which he was painfully and sensibly aware that devolved upon him he endeavored to impress upon the minds of the jury the particular and peculiar duty and responsibility that rested upon them in the highest and most important duty that can be placed upon a fellow citizen that of passing between the State and the life of a human being You are here with that great prerogative of your Creator in your hands to take away that which no earthly power can restore —no power save God who has given it—the life of your fellow man We are now approaching the time when the whole responsibility will rest upon you You have heard the testimony in the case, and the opinion of distinguished medical men on the stand applicable to the facts and after the Counsel have performed their duty and you have listened to the charge from His Honor you must then return to your own responsibility It is your duty to weigh it all with that charity and mercy which the law throws around every such case as this

He said that he [illegible] able manner in which his colleague opened the case as well as to the able and fair opening of the learned Counsel for the Government so far that he appreciated it and accepted it with one slight modifications One thing from which he dissented was the assertion that the defense of insanity was frequently set up In his experience of thirty years practice in this County, this was the first time he ever knew the defense of insanity being set up in a murder trial But if that defense had been frequently resorted to, that should create no prejudice in this case Every case must be tried by itself without any reference to what has been done in another

He showed how extremely difficult it was for ordinary men engaged in the various pursuits of life—in full health and vigor—nothing none of the ills mediately able to understand this peculiar disease of insanity about which many medical men know but little — You may go to the Insane hospital if you please, and stand face to face with a person who has entirely lost his reason and you may see him act apparently as other men and you say to yourself how shall I get at—how determine that that man has something in his brain which renders him unconscious of his acts as the very beasts [illegible] prisoner. You can see nothing in his outward appearance that would make you say he is not like other men [illegible] utmost skill and keenest examination [illegible] able to judge properly and right

There is a difficult question which meets us at the very threshold of the case and one that requires some skill, caution and [illegible] and that is the question of intemperance [illegible] its—the long continued use of alcoholic drinks. Drunkenness is no defence when the crime has been committed. The law is that it aggravated the offence but if the man has lost his reason through continued and repeated instances of intoxication he is a fit subject for the Insane Asylum but not the subject for crimes which he in his demented state is incapable of committing

Drunkenness may be pursued to such an extent that it destroys the will when it ceases to be voluntary, and involuntary drunkenness is a disease subject to medical treatment—a species of insanity but how difficult it is to determine where intoxication ends and insanity begins You are to decide upon a disease of the intellect which you cannot see and hardly comprehend If it were a disease of the body how readily you could come to your conclusion by the aid of medical men Medical science has been so far advanced that every part of the human system has been laid as you would a machine every bone, every nerve every sinew and everything, that make up the human organization has been discovered and its proper function determined Every human ingenuity has created and put together in proper [illegible] each in its proper place every part of the human body but when completed it presents to you nothing but a grinning skeleton you can tell it to move the arm, to take one step to speak to you but it is mere mockery for its God alone who can breathe into man the breath of life and know the secret workings of his mind He spoke of the early life of the prisoner—harmless without stain upon his character up to the time of committing the act for which he is now being tried —of his good record in the army, where he received the first great shock to his system [illegible] up the testimony in its order he went over every part of it with great care placing it before the jury in the most favorable manner possible for the prisoner.

He concluded his argument at 4 ½ p m with an earnest and pathetic appeal He said Gentlemen I do not ask you to turn aside your duty I know that you are men who will come up to your duty, but do not labor to suppress those generous emotions which God has given you, one act of mercy will go with you through the world blessed will be the recollection that you have saved the life of a human being Be sure that you stand upon the truth in the case Be sure that you are not mistaken in the condition of that man This great principle of truth here at the bottom of justice it appeals to this Court it is the very temple of truth, the Judge is sworn to the truth the counsel are sworn you are sworn and every witness who goes upon the stand truth is inscribed upon these walls and you cannot violate it It is that which I invoke for this man In all my professional life I have never felt so strongly impressed with the duty I have had to perform, I have not done it as I would wish I must now leave the case in you hands You can kill or make live Do not send this man to the gallows unless you feel that you must do it in the stern performance of your duty

At half past four Mr Frye commenced the closing argument for the government He said,

Gentlemen of the Jury, the junior counsel for the defense in his admirable opening, arraigned public opinion and charged upon law cruelty, and the eloquent counsel closing the defense closed with an appeal for mercy He said that the law was merciful. Now, gentlemen, remember this, there never was a criminal so bloody that he did not receive the tears of some, and remember this, Mr. Foreman, that there never was yet a criminal so bloody that the law did not throw around him all the protection that you have any right to throw around him. No matter what may may be your sympathy, no matter what may be the appeals of the eloquent counsel; no [illegible] your oaths, have no right to go one step beyond what [illegible] permits you [illegible]

step beyond their honest convictions. The law allows them no feeling of ambition no desire for gain, not one particle of love for destruction [illegible] influence them against the prosecutors of crime, they they must do their duty The law takes this prisoner, John Lawrence, no matter how wicked he may be, no matter how poor he may be, and covers him from head to foot with an armor and compels the government to break through that armor before he's deprived of his liberty And, gentlemen, you will not be misled by the sophistry of the learned counsel who has just closed. There is no such thing as certainty in human affairs and never can be No verdict could ever be given if it was true that absolute certainty was required It is only by the sophistry—the careful and cunning wording of the counsel that you can be deceived I uphold it in the gentleman, he is at work for his client

Only one year ago, in this very Court House for one of the bloodiest and wickedest murders I ever heard of, he stood here and pled by the hour in the same way and under the same sophistry, knowing that the man must have been bloody with the murder I uphold him I applaud him in it He is not under oath like the prosecuting officers [illegible] no farther than his conscience will allow him Beware that by it you are not led into the violation of the oaths you have taken upon you

The Attorney General occupied about an hour and a quarter taking up many of the most important points in the case and presenting them in such eloquent language that he was listened to with almost breathless attention not only by the jury, but by all within sound of his voice We have not time nor space to give a full report

At half past five the Court adjourned to 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, when Mr Frye will conclude his argument

OUR SHIPPING INTEREST

Mr Lynch presented his elaborate and valuable report in the House yesterday upon the subject of our American shipping The following is an abstract of its principal features

The report commences with a sketch of the increase of American commerce up to 1861 and of the decrease since that time, until our tonnage has fallen off one half, while that of Great Britain has been increased sixty per cent. While our tonnage has thus been decreasing our imports and exports have increased forty per cent.

Meanwhile there has been a gradual revolution in the mode of propelling vessels and in the materials used in their construction, until at the present time no vessels propelled by steam have become the ocean carriers of the world

New routes have been selected, and passengers are carried with freight. Great Britain has taken advantage of our circumstances to obtain the great share of this new system of combined passenger and freight traffic, and schedules are given of the numerous routes of which she has a monopoly and of the subsidies paid them.

In contrast is given a schedule of the few mail steamers run by the United States and of the small sums paid them. There are but thirty-two American ocean mail steamers in all, while one English company has forty-nine, and one French company has over sixty. The [illegible]

ers, and a withdrawal of many other vessels from the foreign trade The high rates of duties and taxes have been attributed to keep shipbuilding and navigation in a depressed condition

The following remedies have been proposed to the Committee. 1st. The readmission to registry of American built ships transferred to English flags during the war 2d A change in the navigation laws, to admit foreign built ships to American register 3d A drawback on all imported material used in the construction of vessels, or any equal bounty where only American materials are used and fourth, permitting ships outward bound to take their stores from bond free of duty The first proposition is rejected by the Committee on the ground that it would encourage citizens who enjoy the protection of the Government in time of peace to desert in time of war The second proposition is also rejected by the Committee on the ground that it will place us commercially at the mercy of the nation which destroyed our shipping and dealt a blow at our navy The third and fourth propositions are sustained by the Committee in bills which they submit The proposed drawback is $5 per ton on wooden sailing vessels, $10 [illegible] wooden steamers $15 per ton [illegible] sail or steamships and $[illegible] per ton [illegible] steamers or an equivalent bounty on those classes where American materials are used Ship stores and coal may also be taken out of bond by outward bound vessels duty free A bounty of $1 50 per ton is allowed on all vessels sailing to and from the British North American Provinces $3 per ton on all steamers going to transatlantic ports, and $4 on steamers sailing to all other ports These vessels are to be engaged at least half of each year in the foreign trade A second bill abolishes all pilotage or other dues collected by State or municipal authorities and makes it a penal offence to attempt to collect them The present law imposing a tonnage tax is repealed and a new tonnage tax of thirty cents per ton is to be collected each time that a vessel enters excepting those regularly trading to ports on the North American Continent or the West India Islands and Central America on which it is to be collected [illegible]

In conclusion the report shows by carefully prepared tables that our inland cities in the Mississippi valley are equally interested in the revival of our shipping interests with the seaboard, [illegible]

The Committee [illegible] granting subsidies [illegible] consideration, and will [illegible]

It is understood that among the [illegible] able features of the bill already [illegible] is that the [illegible] foreign steamers which [illegible] in traffic [illegible] this country

Irritable Invalids

Indigestion not only [illegible] the physical health but the dispositions and tempers of its victims The dyspeptic becomes too, in a measure demoralized by his sufferings He is subject to fits of irritation sullenness, or despair as the case may be A preternatural sensitiveness which he cannot control leads him to misconstrue the words and acts of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is not unfrequently marked by exhibitions of testiness foreign to his real nature These are the mental phenomena of the disease for which the invalid cannot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household discomfort. It is to the interest of the home circle it is of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from incipient insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed This can only be done by removing their physical cause, a derangement of the functions of the stomach and its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels. POETRY.

AN EDITOR'S BED.

In a certain village the editor of a local newspaper had a room at the hotel. Being absent one night the house being crowded the landlord put a stranger in his bed. The next morning the following lines were found in the room—

> [illegible]
> [illegible]
> [illegible]
> That [illegible] his case.
> When I thought of my humble cot, away,
> I could not suppress a sigh,
> But thought and rolled in the feathery nest
> How [illegible] editor's lie

The editor after some inquiries of the landlord made the following additions

> The chap whose form has rested here,
> And left his copy behind
> For a bad impression should be locked up
> As the cut is most unkind
> Behold a proof of how he lies
> In the morning he went away,
> And like many that used an editor's sheet
> Has forgotten the bill to pay

MISCELLANY.

HOUSEHOLD SERMONS

BY CHIMO

Furnaces.

"Behold, all ye that kindle a fire, that compass yourselves about with sparks."

It has been very poetically, as well as truthfully said, that

A baby in the house is a wellspring of happiness

but if the poet could only have brought his Pegasus down to the ordinary hitching post of every day life, he might quite as truthfully have made the assertion in regard to a Furnace, for, of all comfortable, enjoyable indispensable inventions for domestic comfort and convenience, a Furnace certainly stands foremost.

No more of those great, black, ungainly masses of iron that men call stoves, to make the tidy housewife's heart sick with its dust, and rust collecting surface, its dry, unhealthy breath, and its indispensable accompaniment of smutty coal hod, shovel, and poker, to say nothing of the room that it must necessarily usurp

No more smell of burning wool, which, after a careful search is found to proceed from a hole in our very best three ply carpet where careless Bridget has set the red hot poker down

No more dread of getting up mornings to shiver over an only half awakened fire, and grow "fretty" and nervous in the vain attempt to get warm by scalding throat and stomach with draughts of boiling hot coffee, for the Furnace sturdily holds its own against Jack Frost and all his elves, not one of whom dares to leave so much as a footprint on the clear, shining window panes

Nor is this blessed invention a source of comfort alone There is something so genial, so companionable about it, that one finds it hard, sometimes to realize that it is a mere mass of galvanized iron and brick work.

Now it may be, as Aunt Betsey used to say, "terrible weak" in me, but the fact is, that I, who never suffered from a pang of fear at coming home alone o' nights, never even fancied or feared a water proof ghost at any dark corner, or shadowy avenue, was actually "skittish" when it came to going down cellar by lamplight.

I knew that there was, could be nobody there—but what of that? There was something in the chill, damp atmosphere that would make me think of burial vaults, and all such uncomfortable things, and I never filled my coal hod without a sly, shuddering glance in to the dark, mysterious corners, half expecting a glimpse of some uncanny creature suited to those gloomy surroundings

But now, what a change There stands the furnace, like some huge benevolent old giant, stretching his round, shining arms in every direction, and breathing cheer and comfort from his big, warm heart, quickening the slow blood in the veins of age, and lending a brighter glow to the dimpled cheek of childhood, while with his genial health-giving power, he makes summer in our hearts, as well as in our homes

All praise to the man who first invented Furnaces! and to "all ye who kindle a fire," allow me to say, that if you have any in your house who 'compass themselves about with sparks,' get a Furnace, the first thing you do

Go without that new carpet, let the girls wear their old furs this season get along without a horse, walking will do you good but, by all means, get a Furnace Have your parlor, and front entry especially, well warmed and you'll find your bills for sore throat and cough medicine sensibly diminished

Get your Furnace, kindle a fire therein and if the "sparks" that encompass you about, are respectable, well-behaved sparks, let them enjoy the genial warmth, undisturbed by rattling stoves or frost-bitten adieus in a cold entry, and you will enjoy the serene consciousness of a pleasant duty to family and guests, well performed, for which your whole household will surely "arise up and call you blessed"

CAR MANNERS As cars, horse or steam, have become a necessity to nearly all who indulge in locomotion, a little courtesy will promote the comfort of all

In order to be in a proper state of mind to give and receive pleasure, it would be well to get to the steam cars a few minutes before they start. To be obliged to hurry, and barely get on as the cars are moving, is not favorable to bodily safety, or that calmness of mind which makes traveling a pleasure

Be not disturbed if you find the best seats taken, and all the windows occupied on both sides, for if you had been a little earlier, you would have taken one of them yourself.

Purchase your ticket at the office, as on some roads it will save you both the ten cents extra charge, and the indignation of having the demand made for the additional sum.

Have your ticket in your hand ready for the conductor, for it will prove uncomfortable to you both for him to wait for you to hunt in several pockets, or your portmonnaie, or reticule, to find it.

For information about trains you will find the conductor the most reliable source, for strangers are often equally ignorant with yourself.

When a car is crowded, do not occupy a second seat with your bundles, or be angry when a passenger wishes it for himself. Much less pardonable is it for you to monopolize four seats turned inward for yourself and friend. Never be afraid to ask, or unwilling to grant, that the seat be turned back and properly occupied.

It will, of course, be instinctive in a gentleman to offer his seat to a lady, but it is not necessary to be done in all cases. So you may feel, when no double unoccupied seats are to be had like giving up your single seat to please a couple who desire to sit together But not always does courtesy require this for a husband and wife, or a pair of lovers may be temporarily separated without alarming results

If an open window proves a source of discomfort to your neighbor, you will close it although you may think the person over-sensitive and nervous.

If you hear a child cry, be not angry If you travelled when you was an infant, you probably cried and disturbed somebody

Remember the case of the man who angrily demanded of a father, trying to pacify his child, Where is that child's mother? and his meek reply In the baggage car, in her coffin'

A certificate for the benefit of the afflicted

For twenty five years I had suffered with Scrofular and Salt Rheum, (or Tetter) Have paid out hundreds of dollars and been treated by several first class Physicians, without benefit. Some four weeks ago I commenced using the University Medicines At the time my forehead and head were covered with sores and scaliness of the skin, also my tongue was covered with small Ulcers. I am to-day free from all the above troubles, and can most heartily recommend these medicines to the afflicted

PILLS.

For the Cure of a great variety of Diseases, arising from the Impurities of the Blood, and Obstructions in the Organs of Digestion.

The only cathartic that will relieve the bowels, cleanse the blood and renovate the system effectually without causing those horrid griping pains, and leaving the bowels in that torpid, costive state which is true of most cathartic medicines now offered for sale These Pills are not (like most others) composed of antimony, quinine, mercury, and calomel but of cathartics used and approved by all good medical practitioners

These Pills may be used in all forms of disease with the most decided benefit, and without fear of injury They do not cramp or rack the delicate frame or weak constitution, but will be found particularly useful by stimulating the weakened and distempered parts into healthy action

The most delicate female, and children of the tenderest age, can take these Pills with perfect safety and the most salutary results will follow Married ladies, under all circumstances will find these a safe and in small doses, a mild cathartic

They do not make the weak weaker, but give strength and tone to the digestive organs

ALL WHO NEED PHYSIC, TAKE P P. PILLS.

If your system is in an unhealthy state two or three Parsons Pills will bring it round all right

Parsons Pills are the best known remedy for Constipation of the Bowels Inflammation of the Kidneys, Nervous Headache Sick Headache Irregularity Costiveness, Biliousness, Dyspepsia Indigestion Female Obstructions, Whites Influenza, Loss of Appetite and Loss of Strength

FROM THE "MAINE FARMER"

Parson's Purgative Pills are a safe wholesome vegetable, and natural medicine and may be relied upon as being the best Anti bilious medicine in existence

Let the reader reflect that Parson's Purgative Pills are now manufactured and sold by the proprietors of Johnson's Liniment, an article that has reached a larger sale and more extended popularity than any other medicine known, and any attempt on their part to build up a reputation for a worthless article would blast their reputation as compounders of medicine and ruin their prospects, both in regard to the Liniment and everything else for which they seek the favor of the public

Acting with this view we have been scrupulously particular not to say anything in favor of our medicines which the facts in the case do not warrant

PARSONS PURGATIVE OR ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS.

Notwithstanding the great variety of Pills now in the country a necessity has long been felt and freely acknowledged both by physicians and families for a safe and reliable Anti bilious Pill—something that should be free from mercury and every mineral or deleterious substance, and be really safe to administer to infants or the most delicate patient To meet this demand, Parson's Purgative Pills were compounded every property of which has been carefully analyzed by experiment and scientific investigation Thus they are believed by physicians and people, wherever they are known, to be the safest, surest and most desirable family pill in the country Notwithstanding they are so mild in their operation causing no griping pains they are composed of powerful vegetable substances, and will be found to be sufficiently searching and active to cleanse out the obstructions in the most robust constitution Parson's Purgative Pills also have the best effect on the Liver of any medicine yet discovered, at the same time they help the Kidneys, relieve the Lungs, and cleanse the Blood of all impurities, also equalizing its circulation, thus preventing cold surface and limbs or undue heat and congestion, either inside or out It is as plain as 2 and 2 are 4 that what is required in a family Pill is one that will reach with effect to produce proper excretion, and open all the natural drains Parson's Purgative Pills will do this with promptness and fidelity, and no physician's prescription could do more Many people suppose that the Bible declares money to be the root of all evil, but it is not so,—it is the love of it which is spoken of But don't love your money so as to keep you from buying a box of Parson's Purgative Pills when, by so doing, you may avert much pain and lingering distress and perhaps save a life Our advice is to keep them constantly on hand as you may by their use break up fevers or crop in the bud those symptoms which might otherwise result in long and weary sickness

CHAPPED HANDS—Rub them well at bed time with Anodyne Liniment, and wear leather or kid gloves during the night, for chapped lips, apply it with the finger

We regard the following as the most valuable testimony which we have to produce to show the [illegible] of our Powders over all others, and the importance of giving them freely to horses that labor con[illegible] ly —

DEC 7, 18[illegible]

Our travelling agent called upon Messrs S W Pope & Co lumber merchants, Machias Me and tried to sell them some of our 'Sheridan's Horse Powders, but they refused to buy them stating that they did not believe that they were any good and, secondly, that they had some of another kind on hand which they could neither use or account of their worthlessness Our agent [illegible] it important that they should have them [illegible] that they employed a large number of horses [illegible] business) proposed to leave them three [illegible] with the understanding that they should [illegible] and, if not entirely satisfied, they were [illegible] ing for them The Messrs Pope & Co [illegible] proposition and took the Powders [illegible] months after, our agent again visited them [illegible] they cheerfully paid for the three (3) dozen [illegible] ditionally, and bought five (5) dozen more [illegible] cember following just twelve months from [illegible] leaving the first three (3) dozen on his return [illegible] the Provinces, our agent sold them only [illegible] more making SIXTEEN (16) dozen sold [illegible] cash in just one year We avail ourselves of [illegible] opportunity to publicly thank the Messrs Pope & Co for their generosity in permitting us the use of their names, for certainly there are none more [illegible] or favorably known and none that would [illegible] more advantage to us in point of influence

AN HONEST DOUBTER CONVINCED

In February 1866 our agent called upon Charles Sager who keeps the largest and best of let horses in the city of Portland Me and tried to sell him a small dozen of our Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, but the captain stubbornly refused to buy, and would not even receive them on trial, with the option to pay or not, he plainly remarking that he could make a Condition [illegible] himself that would answer his purpose, besides he had some of another kind on hand, that he [illegible] Finally So our agent contented himself by putting up a poster in his office gave him a [illegible] of the Powders, and departed Just after [illegible] Capt Sager went to the City Hotel met [illegible] and, without solicitation, bought for [illegible] of the Cavalry Powders, and voluntarily [illegible] his name in any way that would tend to [illegible] their field of usefulness

All who know Capt Sager and have [illegible] with him, will unite with us in saying [illegible] of the most candid, reliable, and gentlemanly men in the State of Maine and his opinion [illegible] as well as on other subjects in any [illegible] with horses is entitled to great consideration

WHAT THEY ARE FOR.

"Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders" should be given to horses in all cases for loss of [illegible] Roughness of the Hair, Stoppage of Bowels [illegible] or Thick Water all Coughs and Colds, Swelling of the Throat, Worms Horse-ail, Hide bound Wind and Heaves They are equally good for diseases of horned cattle and sheep, young colts, horses fitting for market may be greatly improved and very much enhanced in value by the use of [illegible] powders

Old horses, almost worn out and apparently useless may be rejuvenated and made fit to a [illegible] ble amount of service by the use of the [illegible] Condition Powders" Most horses are subject to worms and, while they exist in a horse he [illegible] thrive the food that should strengthen and [illegible] the animal is absorbed by the worms [illegible] horse will have a great appetite and continue to grow poor

SYMPTOMS—Hide bound, coat stares, [illegible] and glaring great appetite &c "Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders" will positively relieve worst cases

There is no man, or set of men, that can [illegible] Powders on a horse, no matter how [illegible] he may be without admitting that they [illegible] been benefitted many times the value of [illegible] ders given In support of the above we [illegible] ask attention to the following —

The undersigned, having experienced the great [illegible] results resulting from a frequent use of Cavalry Condition Powders" for horses [illegible] permit the use of their names in re[illegible] them to be (in their opinion) the best [illegible] kind now in the market
